THE GORE
One Ninety Queen's Gate
LONDON

The newly formed British Croatian Business Club held its inaugural event at London's famous Gore Hotel. The Deputy Mayor of Zadar and the Chairman of the British Croatian Business Club welcomed some one hundred visitors to sample the fine cuisine and wines of the region, all of the companies exhibiting agreed it was a successful and a memorable day; the first of many.

The British Croatian Business Club will follow up activity on Zadar business links and soon will start to activate the various industry focus groups.

Everton supporters are brought up on the tales of magical forwards in the club's history, and the early indications were that Jelavic was the real deal. Last season, Jelavic hit the back of the net on twelve occasions but the player has struggled to find the same consistency in the current campaign. Croatian striker ready to weigh up his options at the end of the season.

Opinion

The British Croatian Business Club London, United Kingdom is an independent non-commercial business club funded by membership and sponsorship. There are two key purposes of a BCBC. One is to represent the interests of businesses in a United Kingdom and Croatian region and the second purpose is to help businesses grow and connect with others, nationally and internationally.

Mission

British Croatian Business Club represents and promotes the interests of its members by supporting them in doing business with and in the United Kingdom through quality lobbying, information support, and through networking activities aimed at improving Croatian trade and business climate in conformity with internationally accepted business practices.

Vision

The British Croatian Business Club will be unified and a force in building the best possible environment for the members to meet, through organising of international and national business events, business forums, seminars, presentations of business and investments opportunities, promoting a platform for integration and partnerships between the United Kingdom, International Croatian Associations and the Republic of Croatia.

Restaurant Fosa, Zadar, Croatia

Damir Tomljenovic - Chef
and host of London Event

Named after the harbour that flows next to the city's east wall, which is just outside its front door, Fosa has the excellent location near the sea. By day your table is the best place to catch a cool breeze, and by night you'll have an unobstructed view of the water and the city lights. This distinguished and stylish fish restaurant has a sophisticated modern styling and a personal and romantic feel. According to the restaurant guides it's one of the best restaurants in town Zadar.

Quality typifies the excellent Croatian cuisine here.
